

October 4, 2017

GPG Advisers Sponsors RE Insight

Podcast Feature: Anant Yardi, President & Founder of Yardi Systems

GPG Advisers is pleased to announce sponsorship with RE Insight, a unique leadership and knowledge-sharing platform with a key focus on people, technology and strategy within the real estate industry.

What can RE Insight do for you?

The real estate industry continues to change in unique and interesting ways that impact how we live, work, shop and play. RE Insight's intent is to break down the barriers that historically limit our understanding of the real estate space and provide insight into the companies, leaders, operating models and technology that are leading the way. With that in mind, RE Insight will host podcasts, industry meetings, share studies and distribute knowledge that help us all become successful.

Today, RE Insight is releasing the inaugural Podcast featuring Anant Yardi, President & Founder of Yardi Systems. Our next guest in a few weeks will be David Neithercut, President & CEO of Equity Residential. In partnering with such leaders, we get their thoughts on what makes them successful, how they overcame challenges in their careers and what we can learn from them.

The Podcast is found at www.reinsight.com; SoundCloud via www.soundcloud.com/re_insight; or Apple PodCast app under the name re_insight.

RE Insight Podcasts

The RE Insight Podcast series is a set of open discussions with leaders in the real estate space. It provides unique insight into their backgrounds; what has made them successful; and where they see the space and their companies going. The fascinating breadth and depth of strategic management topics within real estate include innovation, entrepreneurship, marketing, and sustainable organizational growth amid constant changes. We are grateful for their leadership in the industry and appreciate their time to share insights to the broader real estate market place. For more information visit www.reinsight.com.

About GPG Advisers

GPG Advisers is an integrated professional services firm focused on front to back office strategy, structure, process and technology advisory and delivery services within the real estate industry. The organization specializes in providing services to owners, builders and operators of real estate, leveraging their team of industry experts and proven solutions. The firm is committed to providing a team of talented and qualified professionals for their clients. For more information visit www.gpgadvisers.com.